PRODUCT DESCRIPTION

Cannabidiol, abbreviated as CBD, is a naturally occurring component of the Cannabis sativa agricultural hemp plant. Unlike THC, the cannabinoid that most people have heard of in relation to marijuana, CBD is a non-psychoactive part of the plant that has been shown to have positive effects on the body and is being scientifically investigated for numerous other possible health benefits.

Recently legalized in the United States by the 2014 & 2018 Farm Bills, the CBD derived from agricultural hemp interacts with the body's endocannabinoid system (ECS) to promote overall health and wellness. The ECS works to maintain balance throughout the body and can have regulating effects on the various other systems - nervous, digestive, immune, metabolic, and more - to achieve homeostasis.
